A BUNDLE OF ERRORS AND SOME VERY BAD LOGIC.

We clip the following from the Louisville Journal of a recent date:

"The southern friends of the Nebraska bill profess to regard it as peculiarly a southern measure. Now isn't it a little curious that, in Congress, the New York hards, who prover-bially go for southern rights, are nearly or quite all against the Nebraska bill, while the softs, who are as notoriously freesoilers, are to a man in favor of the bill? Is there any proba-bility that the softs would be all for, and the hards all against a measure calculated to secure the rights or extend the power of the slaveholding interest?

It is somewhat singular that so intelligent a journalist as the editor of the Louisville Journal should suffer himself to commit so many glaring blunders in so few lines. He is mistaken altogether. The New York hards are not "nearly or quite all against the Nebraska bill," nor are the "softs to a man in favor" of it. The truth is, that no vote on the Nebraska bill has been taken in the House of Representives. One vote was taken which was deemed by many, but not by ourselves, a test vote, when most of the hards present, if we are not much mistaken, voted favorably to Nebraska, while none of the softs followed their example.

If, however, there be one solitary hard in Congress who has declared his hostility to the Nebraska bill with the doctrine of non-intervention in it, we do not know of it; and if there be a single soft who is in favor of it, we are yet to be informed of it. We are aware that one or two of the hards have voted with the factionists who are endeavoring to stave off the bill. We have been grieved to see it too, and have. expressed our sentiments very plainly to them. We do not know a single soft who did not vote in the same way.

stead of taking the hards and the softs, why sachusetts. did it not take the southern men themselves to test it? Is not the whole southern delegation (with very few exceptions) in favor of it? Are south generally in favor of it? Are not the abolitionists and freesoilers everywhere opposed to it? Let the Journal seek for the test in these things, and it will not seek in vain.

But, again, southern men do not claim this as peculiarly a southern measure. They claim it as a great constitutional measure, involving the rights and the equality of all the States of this Union, and they appeal to patriots of all sections to sustain it. It has warm friends among the true-hearted democracy of the north. Indeed, it was originated by the able senator and statesman of Illinois, who, happily for the country, is the honored chairman of the Territorial Committee of the Senate.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.

We do not know that the above paragraph is original in the Plaindealer; but, from whatever source it may have emanated, it appears to us like an attempt to extort black mail in some form, or to give vent to a petty spite or puerile revenge. The gentlemen composing the firm of Adams & Co. have a reputation for integrity, both individually and collectively, too world-renowned to be affected by any such insinuation. The Plaindealer will perceive, on our first page, that the company do "advertise the fact," and not in our paper alone, but in all the principal papers of Baltimore and Washington. The articles therein advertised have been accumulating at their office in this city for seven years, to their serious inconvenience, and in many instances have been refused by both consignor and consignee. At the expiration of every twelve months if the person to whom an article is sent is not to be found, and the consignor is not known to the company, the box, package, trunk, or parcel is opened to ascertain any data from its contents. If none are found, it is advertised and sold with others. When the products of the sale amount to more than their charges for freight, advertising, and auctioneers' commissions, (but no storage,) the balance is held in trust by the company, subject to the claim of the person to whom it is sent, his heirs, or assigns. We have yet to hear of the first instance where the integrity of this establishment has been impeached, or any confidence reposed in them has been abused. In a business so extensive, with its thousand ramifications, some accidents are liable to occur, but the court calendars will tell how promptly all losses are paid, without resort to legal proceedings.

Chas. H. Haswell, surveyor of sea steamers for the New York. Boston, Philadelphia, and Lloyds (London) boards of underwriters, stated in the trial of Major Wyse, that vessels were often used for carrying passengers which would not be used for freight, as the former were not insured—in other words, vessels upon which the underwriters would refuse to take freight risks upon. We think it should be the duty of the general government to look into this matter.

THE LATE ANTI-NEBRASEA MEETING in the park, New York, notwithstanding the great array of in-fluential names heralded abroad by the freesoil press of that city, was a contemptible affair. The Journal of Commerce says it "must have been a source of disappointment to some of the gentlemen under whose sanction it was called. At the hour appointed for commencing, there were present about two hundred persons, among whom were to be seen but very few of the men whose names appeared appended to the call, or attached to the list of officers nominated or accepted on the occasion. If these gentlemen were present, instead of presenting themselves upon the plat form, they very wisely kept in the background. The speeches delivered were remarkable for their impotent denunciation and crazy wrath against most that is venerable and virtuous among the living and the dead."

Important Information on the Quality and Preparation of Cotton.

No. 1. 38 GROSVENOR STREET, Feb. 25, 1854. DEAR SIR: I have written this age to be left in case I should not find you at home. If you will be good enough to address younelf to Mr. Bayley, president of the Manchester chamber of the manchester of the manchester chamber of the manchester of the ma ber of commerce, he will, I am sure, gladty give you all the information you require. He is largely engaged in spinning the very quality of cotton respecting which you wishto be informed. Make use of my name for an introduction

I remain, dear sir, faithfully, yours, RICHARD COBDEN. GEO. N. SANDERS, esq.

No. 2. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND MANUFACTURES,

Manchester, Feb. 28, 1854.

Sir: This morning I had the honor of receiving your communication and inquiry of yesterday.

To the simple question "do the manufacturers of Sea Island cotton assort it by the lock," I can give the positive reply, that they do not, nor would it upon an extensive or practical scale be possible for them to do so. The spinners of fine Sea Island cotton of course extern the longest standed cotton of the best. spinners of fine Sea Island cotton of course esteem the longest stapled cotton as the best; and in all their processes they get rid of as much short fibre as they can, and preserve unimpaired all the long fibres. Essentially the art of the cotton-spinner consists of disentangling the fibres of cotton, in freeing those fibres from all extraneous substances and impurities, in securing the longest fibres, in obtaining them of equal length, and finally placing them parallel, so that they will freely and evenly pass each other in the subsequent and evenly pass each other in the subsequent process of elongation into a line of yarn or

From my own knowledge, the cotton of Florida is an excellent and desirable quality for the spinner, but it has been sent to the market in a "craply" or knotty condition, which has greatly diminished its value. I have seen some Florida cotton cleaned, and prepared by the MacCarthy gin, and which cotton believe has been increased in value by that preparation to the extent of twenty per cent. That this gin, applied to Florida cotton, would be a great advantage, does not admit of a that the spinner requires only pure, even, and disentangled fibres, I have no doubt he would save himself much trouble, and increase the value of the cotton; and if he could classify the fibres according to their length, and pack the cotton in bales with equal and assorted fibres, a further advantage would be the result. At any time I shall be most happy to afford you any information upon this most important ubject which I may possess. "I have the honor to be, sir, Your most obedient servant, THOS. BAYLEY, President. Geo. N. SANDERS, esq., &c. Consul of the U. S., London

Messrs. EDITORS: I leg leave, through the columns of the Sentinel, to call public attention to the propriety, nay the necessity, for the establishment of a gymnasium in this city. It needs little or no argument to convince the public of the benefits arising from such an institution: they are too manifest to be disputed. and I feel secure in the assertion that it would proper direction. The expense could not be very great; for, in a gymnasium, every article is of the simplest form of construction and plain but durable material.

A word of argument, to show that such an institution would be well supported, may not be out of place. The great body of govern-ment clerks in this city, and very many of the residents, are engaged for a large part of the time in sedentary habits. To men so situated, exercise is necessary for the preservation of health; and I doubt not that a sufficient numestablishment calculated to afford them what they so much require. In my own limited circle of acquaintance, I can designate quite a number who would, with alacrity, contribute to the support of a school for exercise; and I feel well assured that such an undertaking would meet with popular approbation.

It is not desired to establish a gymnasium that would equal those already in existence in the older cities. The experiment might be tried without risk of great loss, and as it advanced in prosperity the improvements of later days might be added.

Too much stress cannot be laid upon this subject. The value of health will induce many to enter with spirit into the undertaking; and I would request you, so far as you deem the subject meritorious, and your inclinations lead you, to aid in the formation of a gymnasium in Washington.

Erostation .- This afternoon, Mr. Elliott, the intrepid eronaut, should the weather permit, will make an ascent from the hippodrome building, Judiciary square. The daring feat is not an experiment with this gentleman. For twenty years past, and in almost every city of the Union, he taken his serial flight, and trusted himself to the fickle elements. Such ascents have led to many philosophical discoveries, and the currents of air in the upper regions through them have been determined and understood. By his ascension from Baltimore last autumn, an important discovery was made, and a theory of long existence was refuted, viz: that the air moves with a greater velocity near the surface of the earth than in high altitudes. On this occasion, when Mr. Elliott left terra firma, a breeze was blowing at the rate of ten or twelve miles per hour, transporting him directly over the Chesapeake bay, which he imagined would be an unsuitable "landing-place." He threw overboard ballast to enable the balloon to rise, where he hoped to enter a gentle countercurrent, which would carry him in a reverse direc tion, but his surprise was great when he found at a distance of four miles from the earth, that the counter-current was carrying him at the rate of over one hundred miles per hour; and in his descent, ninety miles from his starting place, the wind was blowing from the same quarter, and with the same gentle force as it was at Baltimore when he started.

An Old Negro Woman, a slave, who is well cared for by her owner, and whose chief occupa tion consists in smoking on the premises erected specially for her comfort, came very near being ourned to death on Saturday morning. In lighting her pipe, she dropped the flaming match on her clothes; but, fortunately, some of the children of the household of her mistress happened to be near at the time, and gave the aged servant the benefit of a shower-bath. This douche averted all danger. Another conflagration on a small scale occurred on Capitol Hill last Saturday night; the clothes in wardrobe or closet having taken fire from chimney flue. An early alarm resulted in a quick suppression of the flames.

And on Sunday morning early, the stable of barn of Mr. Hollidge, in the northern part of the city, was burned to the ground; but as there was no old black woman smoking her pipe in occu pancy, and as there was no chimney flue there abouts, the deflagration must be attributed to some other source.

Timely Relief. - On Monday night, about eleven o'clock, four gentlemen, while on their way home, discovered that a curtain in the fourth story of a dwelling on Sixth street, between E and I streets, was in flames. The danger to the pro perty admitting of no delay, they at once burst open the front basement door, for the purpose of reaching the scene. The occupant, the Hon. C. J. Faulkner, who was in his office, was directly informed of the circumstance which had prompted their abrupt entrance. The parties hurried up stairs, and tore down and cast out the curtain, which had caught fire from the gas jet between the windows, the air having wasted it to the slame. Burning fragments had fallen on the carpet, and therefore the danger was imminent. But for this timely discovery, the spacious and elegant building might have been entirely destroyed.

Another Church Enterprise .- Some few weeks ago the Rev. Dr. Smith commenced opera ions for a new church in the First ward. The Western Presbyterian church was at that time ommenced. On Sabbath last, Rev. T. N. Haskell, lately from the Union Theological Seminary of New York, began his labors with that church; and from the ability and private worth of the young minister, and the energy and zeal of those identified with the enterprise, our citizens may have no doubt of its speedy and abundant success. Departure of Ex-President Fillmore—Excort to Wilmington.

Baltimore, May 15.—Notwithstanding the earnest desire of Mr. Fillmore to escape from all public demonstrations on the part of our citizens, he has everywhere been received with the most enthusiastic greetings, and that hospitality for which our city is so famous.

At 10 o'clock, this morning the mayor and city council proceeded to the residence of Mr. Kennedy, where he was stopping, accompanied by five of our military companies and a large number of citizens; and quite a creditable procession was formed to escort him to the cars. All being arranged, Mr. Fillmore, accompanied by the mayor and Mr. Kennedy, took his seat in an open baroache drawn by four magnificent horses, whilst the council, committee of arrangements, and others followed in a line of hacks, the military forming a fine escort.

On reaching the depot, an immense concourse of citizens was assembled to bid the guest of the city a cordial adieu, who received him with enthusiastic cheers, which continued until the cars thusiastic cheers, which continued until the cars were out of hearing.
